

AIL Napoli - "Bruno Rotoli" Section

The AIL Napoli - "Bruno Rotoli" section is one of the 81 autonomous sections the Italian Association Against Leukemia - Lymphoma and Myeloma (AIL).

It is a non-profit voluntary association, founded by the late Prof. Bruno Rotoli, an esteemed hematologist and scientist renowned for his humanity.

Since 2007, AIL Napoli works to make leukemias, lymphomas and myelomas treatable and curable.

Our values

We believe in the value and dignity of life and in taking care of each person as a whole.

Every day we try to improve the quality of life of hematologic patients with passion and professionalism, considering not only the disease, but also the suffering of patients and of their families.

WORKING TO BUILD A FUTURE WITHOUT BLOOD CANCER

What we do with your help!

ASSISTANCE

- We offer hematologic home-care.
- We operate volunteer-run reception points in Day Hospitals.
- We run a "help desk" to provide psychological support for patients.

RESEARCH

- We finance scholarships and scientific research projects on blood cancer.
 - We support the work of many highly specialized healthcare and administrative professionals.
- We finance the purchase of medical equipment.
- We make and/or renovate outpatient clinics and departments.

AWARENESS

- We organize awareness and fundraising events.
- We run poinsettia and Easter egg campaigns.
- We organize seminars and conferences.

"In 2009 I started my course of chemotherapy. It was a long and difficult journey, but luckily a network of doctors and AIL Napoli accompanied and supported me. Today, also I help people who are ill."

Carolina ex-patient and AIL Napoli volunteer

"I've been a Day Hospital volunteer since 2010. This is a unique experience that enriches me with new points of view and has given me a new outlook on life."

Giuseppe AIL Napoli Volunteer

"In my work as an AIL nurse, I realize that I can also help patients feel supported, understood and that they are not alone."
